days are full of hope that summer will be here some time.

Miss Russell's attendant is taking a vacation & Miss Thurber is rather closely confined just now that a substitute is in charge - but she will be back by the time warm weather really arrives, no doubt, & Miss Thurber will be free for pleasant things.
How sweet the air is to It must be taking the snow from your peak. With many thanks for this thought.
Sincerely M. Lucia Barrett

June 17 [1907]

My dear Miss Whitney,

What a charming suggestion
you make to visit
you among your mountains as we did by the sea.

It seems quite too good to be true that we can really carry out such a delightful

plan - but I am
already building
charming air-castles & looking forward
with hope -

I hope Mrs. Knapp
will be well enough to go - that she will want to, there can be no doubt - As you leave it to my choice - if it does not make too large a number to arrive at once,

I should like to join forces with the Thurber twain & all go together -
It would be more like the old gatherings at "Elisha's Point" - & it is always beautiful & so pleasant things under Miss Thurber's wing -
These last two
